Navimeteo Ltd

Navimeteo are proud to announce the opening of a new international operational office based in the maritime town of Falmouth, Cornwall. Situated in the Tremough Innovation Centre on the University of Exeter Tremough Campus in the UK, the office signals Navimeteo's drive to deliver a unique, high quality service to its international client base. Through a partnership with Falmouth University and because Navimeteo Ltd is positioned at the centre of growth for the UK's marine industry Navimeteo are further integrating current technological service offerings with new, innovative and exciting research and development in forecasting capabilities and software/hardware advances.

Navimeteo are experts in analysing weather events and producing voyage reports - always considering safety first with expert human technical input on every forecast. They are the official weather and marine operations provider for over 50 ports and marinas, work with a number of high profile cruise ship companies (MSC, Saga, Norwegian Cruise Line etc) and support more than 140 superyachts worldwide. Supported by two new staff members, Ben Grigg and Tim Sykes, the UK office compliments Navimeteo's weather centre on the Mediterranean by taking the lead on innovative projects from the UK, bordering the beautiful and wild frontier to the Atlantic Ocean.
